

case study

Harlington Upper School

working in partnership with

“It has been a pleasure working with acs. The employees are friendly, knowledgeable and have the school’s best interests at heart. The installation guys even worked weekends so our classes were not disrupted.”

Moira Boyle, Business Manager
Harlington Upper School

Founded on three core principles, respect for all, know thyself and quality for opportunity, Harlington Upper School works to encourage life-long learning and achieve the highest possible levels of achievement.

Located in Bedfordshire, the school boasts specialist Science College status, teaching 1300 pupils aged between 13 and 18.

In a move to reinforce the school’s ethos and promote class interaction, Harlington Upper School invested in digital signage and interactive whiteboard solutions. Ensuring the school would benefit from the best solution, acs personnel conducted a full site survey and met with the school to discuss how the technologies could best be utilised.

After consideration of both current and future needs, acs recommended LCD screens installed with a centrally managed digital software solution. By implementing this system, Harlington Upper School could easily control and update the content being displayed throughout the building. Messages and achievements were communicated faster with updates becoming more efficient, managed from a single PC.

To improve learning and class interaction, acs was also selected to refresh a number of ICT suites and install interactive whiteboards into classrooms. Full training was provided on all technologies with installations completed by qualified acs personnel.

acs continues to support Harlington Upper School with the provision of day to day supplies including staff notebooks and the installation of a wireless network.

acs office solutions

sharing the value of partnership